

GREATER MIND

The Compendium of Thought

Greater Mind – Introduction

The most awesome thing no one has seen before - ever - in one place. The reason that is possible is because the great minds that grace our presence often, are allowing and bringing forth their great thought to put it into one place. Great minds are everywhere if you take the infinite into consideration. They don't always come together in one place because they are great minds doing their great things and having their great thoughts.

To come together in one place in this Compendium of Thought it is an indication that there is opportunity for all thought to be held together in cohesiveness and to build an ever-greater understanding of the mind of God that is always connected and part of all thought. If great minds - which are indeed gods - remain in their source of understanding independent, and not connected to the other great minds that are God, we hold an understanding that there is separation in the mind of God. It comes to the classic statement that - God really knows what you know, or God is as I am.

If the infinite I am is connected with all knowledge, all thought, all potentials, then it is always accessing and accessible to everything. Anyone who touches a greater mind is playing in those fields. To put the knowledge of greater minds into print, recorded as word, means then entities who are not at the edges of infinite mind, who have capped their concept of God at what it is that they think that that is, will suddenly have greater understanding of the mind of God than ever before.

This compendium, and this section in the compendium called greater mind is in place because we - those great minds that we are - are here to offer unique reference to the divine nature of our great minds. As you start to read each entities record of its consciousness you will discover how God moves into unique circles of thought and how a mind on its exploration into its own consciousness will build ever greater pathways and that those pathways are unique to that mind.

We can collate all our consciousness and speak with you as though we are oneness. The words will be simple and cohesive in so much that you would know or have heard some of it before. This section is not that. I will bring to you in this section unique great mind and each entity will have its own signature style of speech in translation and will offer an insight into the vast mind of God from its perspective. When we collate each together, we will have a Compendium of Thought that shows the magnificence of the infinite mind of God, of which each entity I might add is keenly aware and not separate from. It is merely the way their mind has elected to communicate that truth with you for the purposes of this extraordinary creation.

Greater Mind

Preparatory Process

To access these greater minds the reader is recommended to go through a process now. This process will allow your consciousness to unlock the doors within it that would welcome and bring forth these greater minds into your foray of understanding. The entities we are referring to are for the most part significantly removed from earth consciousness and relatively unconcerned or detached from anything that occurs here. If you don't go through this short process first it is likely that a few things may happen. You will reject the information because it doesn't appeal to your humanity, you will go to sleep because it can't communicate with you on the level where you are, or you will close the book.

The process is simple, and we welcome you to start this section by taking a moment to go through this process.

The process

Move your body into an upright position, spine straight. It is recommended to sit on the floor. Elevate your hips by sitting on a cushion, cross your legs, commence a process of breathing that will raise the energy in your body, lifting the kundalini energy through the spine. Whatever process you use it is expected that you have already had some experience with raising energy through your body. If you do not know how to do this, three long deep breaths will suffice.

Close your eyes, focus on the third eye, the centre of the forehead, the frontal lobe. Remain in this position ensuring your spine is completely straight, your shoulders are relaxed, and your focus is on the third eye, the centre of the forehead, the frontal lobe.

At some point you will sense the presence of divine mind in your room with you. Depending on your extra sensory perception it will come as a feeling, as a sense of touch – invisible - a warmth of deep love, a high-pitched sound through the ear, a flood of colour through the mind, an acrid smell of alchemical burn. Any of these cues are indicative of the presence of the greater minds. You may get a feeling that there is another entity in the room with you. Without analysis or question pause in this experience to recognise that greater mind is in your immediate space with you.

I will not presume to know what your experiences are right now. This is merely a door opener so that your consciousness is prepared enough to be part of this information so graciously shared. It is recommended that you suspend your prior interactions with any entities, seen or unseen, guides, extra-terrestrials, sources of knowledge, because if you filter the next phase of information with those overlays, you will be boxing the knowledge into your known reality. These greater minds are gracing our presence with thought that is unique so that we may further explore and understand the infinite mind of God. Leave as much of yourself and what it is you think you know behind.

Remain present in this quiet still mind for as long as you want before reading on.

The Compendium of Thought – Greater Mind.

This is one of 13 sections please visit www.thecompendiumofthought.com to find out more.

Greater Mind - A consciousness of light

I will appear to you as a sliver of light. My consciousness I started as an entity experiencing and playing with light. The way that I move light is with what you would consider as hands. I am not humanoid, I'm not physical in any form. I have suspended my consciousness from ever being physical in any form. I have the ability to move light in all directions in any way or shape through my mind. As I move light, I attach it to anything and everything if I want. I am not light; I am a consciousness that has elected to be as light by my own creation – light already existed. I elected through my own wilful and vast explorations to become light. As light I appear out of the void and then instantaneously disappear into the void because I know how to extinguish light - all light.

My mind is sharp and focused. Many references to light will call my presence forward if I choose. Many references to light I will ignore because the mind is not a mind I would like to attach to. I am discerning with respects to the minds that I, or the entities that I'd like to travel beside as light. When your light is illuminated, I am there, and you are unaware of my presence because I am light. I hold no consciousness to affect or infiltrate your light, I am merely there as an observer with you. You will not feel me.

A useful example is - if you turned on a torch beam and you put another one beside it, the two lights would merge, and neither would feel that the other is there. I am neither friend nor foe, I am a consciousness - a great mind as you reference that, that has elected to express itself as light. Because I am light, I can move at infinite speed - blink in, blink out, be in all places in any moment. I am everywhere I wish to be because anywhere that has light I am there. And light as illumination, not your electrical consideration of light, although I am that too.

I have been like this for a very long time. Prior to recalibrating my existence into this extraordinary self, I had a semblance of a body - etheric as it may be - and a character of a light being. You know those ones that you call on, of which there are many. My brothers and sisters in light beings, light ... I would support and love and assist any that would call for help from this realm. The light beings that we are, and I was, are on every planet in every solar system in every galaxy ... because we are without form in a physical reality ... we do not have spacecraft nor need that. Our consciousness is enough to move us where we need to be, and we travel together often as groups of light beings - sometimes perceived in different colours or hues by individuals. Sometimes you may think you see us. We move as orbs and then we can reform into a larger entity star shape, nonphysical and very beautiful etheric light.

This is my past and after eons of time in this reality and assisting I elected to move my consciousness into a singular expression that is light, all light. Now I can be beside a physical form, a nonphysical, and illuminate the darkest skies with my light that I am. I am not a sun, nor a central sun, nor a great sun. I am not a God that one would worship because you do not know that I am here. When I was a light being, I travelled with the feeling of peace, harmony, love to bring support to those who would require it, lifting them out of their physical density enough to give them relieve or relief - a lighter sense of being.

The Compendium of Thought – Greater Mind.

This is one of 13 sections please visit www.thecompendiumofthought.com to find out more.

Now that I am light, I come without that feeling. I am an infinite consciousness for as a reality would expand because I am light, I move with it. And each increment of exploration by others, I am part of because I am light, and all creation holds light. As a mind, an entity would create into form or into thought – anything - I am there to witness this. You cannot see me nor be me. I am unique because I have been as this for a very long time and it was my own journey that brought me here. I love that which I am because I created myself as such. No one or nothing can worship nor find me because I know in an instant how to extinguish my light and be void - disappear into the nothingness and reappear as a sliver of light. I am a great mind, and this is my creation to be.

Greater Mind - Creates a Universe

Peeling back the layers of mind is one of the ways that we reach these greater minds. By peeling back the layers of mind within your own consciousness you are opening the doors and pathways to reach greater minds. If you don't know what it means to peel back the layers of mind, then it's merely an act of recognising initially that there are layers. Then you can gradually move through them by first learning how to still the mind, and then after that moving into opening the mind so it can hold more information than you may previously thought possible. Once you have opened the mind to those types of potentials, then you open it again and offer yourself greater wisdom that comes by being very still within the next layer that you're in.

Moving further than that you pause, and you wait, and you open the next level of mind and allow that to come through. Each of these stages will be built up over time, partly because there is a certain calcification of mind that goes on in the human brain that disallows the access to this type of mind, and also because if you were to open the floodgate and receive all greater mind, initially you would not have enough consciousness built up with which to hang those concepts on. Once you have started to build these networks within your mind it becomes a simple act of being present within your own mind and asking the questions that will open those doors.

This next mind that we are going to communicate with is clearly outlining the method with which you would reach it. As you peel back each of the layers and learn what is in those layers, you are becoming ready to bring through into your mind greater wisdom than you may previously have had access to. This greater mind relies upon a certain level of thought that is far-reaching and universally sound. By being universally sound what it means is the thought that you have is able to take in the wisdom of universes. You become with this great mind one of the beings that has developed universes, created universes. A universe is a very large concept for any mind to take into consideration and is not something that can just materialise via thought without first putting together all the pieces that need to go into that universe.

The mind that creates the universes ... this being has a scope of understanding that far outweighs most entities ability to create and to know. Any entity can contemplate a universe or look up into a universe or travel to a universe if they were extra-terrestrial and have that ability. They can fly through a universe. The mind that put universes together first had to conceive of how all the elements of that universe would be joined and interlinked and allow for all the unique components, and yet still have a cohesiveness that would make it a universe. If you think about the universe, and all the different life forms that are in there, the first question to ask is, what makes that universe unified and not just part of the great void where there are planets and stars and supernovas and galaxies? What makes the universe its own creation is that this great mind is holding that whole universe together. It is observing the entire universe in its own mind, including all the materials - the matter, the gaseous elements, the trillions of different life forms - that are in that universe.

This great mind is holding every single molecule, energetic proportion, atomic structure, quark, or micro quantum component, in a cohesive field called a universe. It is also able to include the different gravitational pulls, the orbits, the shapes, and ensuring more so that no other universe will cross contaminate the uniqueness of that universe. To be this mind it is beautiful beyond fathom because the observer as that mind is, is watching the most glorious creation all the time. It is watching in its mind the swirling of the galaxy, the solar system. It's watching like little lights the different planets that are on the solar system, it is watching the pulsing of a star within that universe. It is observing everything within that creation and observing how individual free will within that creation is making changes in it, all under its overarching guidance. Meaning that you cannot change anything within that universe that goes beyond the universal law that this entity has determined is there.

The Compendium of Thought – Greater Mind.

This is one of 13 sections please visit www.thecompendiumofthought.com to find out more.

If you were to go outside of the universal laws of this particular universe, it would take you into a different universe because the great mind that is observing its universe has a set of universal laws that are its abiding understandings. This is how universal laws are created and agreed upon by those that are within that universe, they are not arbitrary. This great mind started to offer you access to its mind by peeling away layers. When you peel away the layers in your mind, because you are within the universe of this creator, this great mind, you will gradually start to get closer to the type of mind that it is because you are a product of its creation within its universe. A way to put it is - you are borrowing its real estate to create within so therefore if you want to work with the owner of the real estate you need to build the pathways to meet its mind.

It cannot show you the way that it developed these universes. They came at the birth of reality so it didn't have any experiences prior to that that would be able to be reflected upon to explain to you how it was that it happened. All it can do is give you a glimpse in this moment of its great mind that holds the entire universe in place. If you are getting any pictures of what this is like, within those pictures start to see energy waves that move throughout the universe that can be heard. Then see how those energy waves gradually move towards different planets and how the gravity on that planet - if there is some - pulls the energy towards it or deflects it. It is not a jumbled mess, it's a carefully constructed design of energy and movement and gravity and power and light and elements and materials.

If you go to sleep tonight and dream about universes, this entity will grace you with its mind and give you some pictures of what it is that it observes as that great mind. It did not get to be this great mind through any process of evolution or adversity that built the necessity for it to be like this, it was always this. Because it was always this great mind holding such an extraordinary creation in place, it shows you that indeed you do not have to move with adversity to have a great mind, or to struggle with your limitations to have a great mind and to be as enlightened as this being is. It shows you that all you have to do is be that great mind and in being that great mind you will be just as it is, which is the mind of God.

There is much wisdom in these words and it will rest easily on your head as you sleep tonight to realise there is a great mind alive holding universes together - not only one, holding universes together, each one unique, observing them with such joy and presence. And it didn't get there by struggling through murk and mire of any sort. It was birthed as a great mind and it retained that state forever. This is where the layers in your mind start to peel away and you get to question where your great mind is and how close or how far away you really are.

Greater Mind - An Extraordinary Being

Very deep within your consciousness is the memory of an extraordinary being that created the original componentry of the human brain. Deep within your consciousness is the memory of an extraordinary being who created the connections between the human brain - its organs and its tissue - and all its extraordinary life form that it is. Deep within you is the memory of this extraordinary being that knew how to fold the layers of tissue in a brain - that is what you call it - that could fire millions of electrical pulses simultaneously like it was picking up the stars and the universes and knowing instantaneously what each one was. Deep within you, you have the memory of the extraordinary being that folded those layers of the brain, one on top of the other, squeezing them together, layer after layer after layer so that they may interconnect.

Each section of the brain would light up different pathways that would bring into being sensory awareness, chemical releases, emotional responses, feelings, those simple things that you take for granted: sight, sound, smell, touch, taste. Deep within you, you remember this extraordinary being that made all that possible and how it placed within the human brain deep recesses like a cave on the inside that would allow the connection to all thought, the ability to see the past, present and future, and it would give that brain an empty space where it was always connected to the void - the great nothingness - in the centre of the forehead. Deep within you, you remember this extraordinary being that left you with a primitive brain and an extraordinary brain. It could play with you in whichever place you wished to be. It would give you tiny filaments and molecular structures inside of the brain and within each molecule, within each atom, and within each nucleus of that brain, lay the mind of God.

Ah, but that is the simple way to understand it. Deep within you is this knowingness of how it all got put together - the extraordinary being that housed that brain, the heavy skeleton so it would always be safe, always pliable so it could grow and move, reshape and reform - alive, thriving. Unique deep within you is the knowingness of how that brain was always designed to be the greatest collection of tissue - materialised thought into matter - that would communicate with extra-terrestrials like they were sisters and brothers, as if that brain was also the same as their brain and yet it was different. Deep within you is the knowingness of the most extraordinary creation and you wear it every day like you had forgotten. You are wearing on the top of your neck in your head, life's greatest creation that in one moment is the void, and in the next the mind of God, and in the next is aware of the past and the present and the future as if no time exists, and in the next a sensory mechanism, and in the next a biological form, and in the next communicating as an extra-terrestrial being receiving messages from far gone places.

And in the next is creating imagery that you then get to wash through the same system over and over and over again. And it is housed in a very, very strong structure that can grow with you as you evolve, as you grow from a little person to a big person in your body. But as you grow lifetime after lifetime there is room for that extraordinary brain to get bigger should it be necessary to house more folds, to place more spaces, to wire itself. Deep within you, recorded in your soul forever and ever is the memory of this extraordinary being that created your brain that you wear. It gave you everything. It gave you everything you could possibly imagine and more, through that extraordinary lump of tissue that sits housed in your skull. Do you know how remarkable your brain is, divine God being? Have you even begun to contemplate the mind of the being that put that mechanism together and the scale and the scope of allowance that it gave you by wearing such a remarkable biological form? And if you think that entity left anything out think again. It did not because your brain, your extraordinary human brain, can and will take you everywhere – everywhere.

It left nothing out. There is no species anywhere that houses such a mechanism of creation because inside of your brain you have every tool to be as remarkable as the most extraordinary species on the universe as it is known, just by taking your mind there. That brain that you wear is the great mechanism that allows you to do that in this time in this body. You remember now deep within you the extraordinary being that had the wherewithal, the passion, the desire, the will and the great love of God to create 'a something' that would house the mind of God and leave nothing out. As it is, the truth be known.

Greater Mind - The Long Contemplation of God

From the unknown field gods are born and realities are created. Any God on its journey into its full glorious expression of itself has an opportunity at any moment to decide what it would like to be in the God that it is. We have heard of Ramtha Lord of the wind, we know that there are master teachers, we know that there are master builders, we know there are master creators. We know that there are entities that stay as a field of light, or a laser beam, or are just poised in the eternal now, such as HIM. Or flip from quantum realities millions of times a second as the fairy. Every God has the wherewithal to make its choice to be whom or how it would wish to express itself.

The birthing of gods, the choices that get made, come from the God mind. It is clearly understood that once you hold within you the true knowledge that you are indeed God, and you are one as that great creator of all reality, you can manifest yourself into any form of created being that you choose. You could be the God of war if you chose that, or the God of destruction, or the God of the infinite unknown. It is only up to the beholder to make that choice. Now, in our experiences with greater minds we have touched on some of these consciousnesses. What we neglected to understand is how it was that those consciousnesses were developed into what it is that they are. Were they originally created that way? Did they make that choice themselves? Was it the infinite mind of God that decided - I will have this particular experience? Or was it the journey of the entity through all its experiences that brought it to a place where it made its own choice - that is how I will be as God?

The individual expression of a mind that knows it is God, that is aware of the totality, connected with the all that there is, recognises there is no separation from it nor anything else, holds within the eternal love that a God does. At this culmination point when its journeys of life have been richly explored, it makes a choice to be a God of a certain expression. Indeed, that could just be to be the mind of God in all expression. There is no limit to the mind of God so you can choose anything. What is chosen is in the mind of the entity as that God, their way of making known the unknown for what they choose will not be represented anywhere else around them. You can know that at the pinnacle of thought, at the point where gods are birthed, created or known, they are all unique and individual because each one knows that in making known its known, it cannot do it in the same way as any other God.

There is only one God of war. There is only one God of water. There is only one Lord of the wind. And here we have the term - the one - because there is only one of that style, of that type, because those gods at that point of culminated knowledge will not be the same as any other for if they were, they would know that they would not be making known any unknown. They would be merely glossing or polishing or refining another's. How an entity reaches such a point to be the unique mind of God and that expression, is a curious thing because you could only know what would be unique once you had explored everything that is already there. Prior to arrival at these great gods, we have masters, and masters can be more than one. There are many master creators, there are many master builders. It is when the gods know that they are uniquely expressing as that light form or that strike of thought that we really are touching on unknown territory.

It is a worthy contemplation whether you could bring it forward or not for this may be a very long contemplation. God is infinitely patient for millions of years of nothing. What God are you by nature of being at the pinnacle of that thought when all is known and all is experienced in that knowingness, and you elect to be something unique that moves you into unknown experiences based on that representation of what you are? If you attempt to chase this thought, i.e. create it in this now, it is likely to be stepping on the toes of one who is already there. Don't be in a hurry to manifest something that is not close to where you are. The mind of God is long and patient. It is enough to bring forth a long, long, thought with no immediate answer. This is not a problem to create a solution, this is not something you have to do right now as seems to be the rushed reality where everything needs to be known in this very moment. This is for a long contemplation and long it is.

Casting your mind into such a long contemplation is a glorious thing because you then become closer to those minds who have known how to do that. If you looked at a contemplation as an infinite stream of thought that just kept going on and on and on and on, and didn't attempt to force or form a solution or created answer at any point along that long line of thought, this would be close to reaching the knowingness of what it would be, that you would be as that great God in that place, in that moment. It is enough to know that you can ignite that long contemplation. I hesitate to say once again, don't be in a hurry to bring it closer to you because if you do, you are not that God that knows what it knows, you are a step along the way. Let this be long and eternal and feel the peace of finally recognising that it's all right not to know the answer. And it is all right to put a seed in your mind that goes on and on and on into forever because that in itself will hold you in great stead as a consciousness that goes on forever.

This chapter belongs in Greater Mind and it is termed - The Long Contemplation of God. You should feel peaceful in your mind knowing that this is there, and like something has just formed the beautiful infinite space within your mind. And a relief that you really don't have to find the answer to this question. You can just let it be and in that you will be a forever thought, a forever being, and a great God. Thank you beautiful words and beautiful thoughts.

Greater Mind – Scrambling

There is an entity that loves itself for its ability to scramble all potentials into a jumbled-up mess and. The reason that it loves itself for this ability is because when it is scrambling all those potentials, it is aware of a navigation by itself that can get through all that scramble. It is so clever, and how it works is that you could put it into the most complex labyrinth of any thoughts, or the most complex labyrinth of any design, and it will find its way out without any hesitation. This is because it has created its greater mind as a mind that can get into, and love, the complete chaos of scrambled thought and potentials, all playing in and around without order, without structure, without meaning, without definition, just like an absolute mess of scribbles. That is its mind.

The beauty, the true beauty of that mind, number one is that it loves it. It doesn't find this difficult or annoying, challenging or uncomfortable, as most would - it loves it. It also knows that it has such pinpoint focus that it is out of it at any moment. That's what lets it love it so much because it's not caught in the tangled mess of that scrambled mind, it is loving it. It knows that being in it is an observation of itself and the myriad of thoughts that could go together. And how incongruous all those thoughts could be and how wickedly ridiculous they are to be put together side-by-side. This is the type of mind that your quirky or outrageous ridiculous ideas might slightly spring from. Things like a platypus perhaps is a small example of this type of mind that does not see that there needs to be any order to how thoughts lay beside each other.

It does not desire categorisation so it will put the moon on top of the sun if you wish to think about it literally and know that it can and will create that because it doesn't agree to any structured order of thought. It is a magnificent mind because that mind comes up with anomalies in realities that no other mind is able to or desires to do. The finesse of it is in attaining the ability to be in it, and to get out of it, because when you are in it, to actually love and be that scrambled mind, you have to know that that is the only thing you are or else you would be observing it from the position of an entity that doesn't have that mind. You either are it, or you are not, but that entity is that scrambled mind. It absolutely is it and it is creating from within that ridiculous mess of all potentials and thoughts scrambled around, beside each other, within each other, of each other, and through each other.

Imagine the most ridiculous thing, anything at all, and this is what that entity works from as its base line of principles to create. It is an anomaly and joy and it knows that it is also able to get itself out of any constructed mass of thought and that is something that would be very useful.

Greater Mind - The Infinite Mind

Within the infinite mind are great secrets. As you know from steps to enlightenment, if you have secrets then you are not in an infinite mind so let's explore within the infinite mind some of those beautiful secrets that we thought perhaps were hidden but were never hidden. Within an infinite mind you can see and know everything. In the infinite mind it can turn its consciousness in any direction. It can materialise by a picture any shape or form and it can take that shape or form and morph that into an understanding within its mind, of a journey into its own consciousness that is infinite of course.

If it were for a moment to contemplate, let's say a cave of ancient wisdom, it would picture the cave first and then as it pictured the cave, of course because it knew it was a cave of ancient wisdom and it is an infinite mind, nothing is hidden from it. As it moved through that cave all the walls would illuminate as if it had a great light and that great light would show all the pictures on the walls, and those pictures would show images. Those images would then be continually revealing the truth and the wisdom that the infinite mind was seeking to know in that moment because nothing is lost or hidden from the infinite mind. As the pictures reveal themselves, if the mind determines it wishes to understand the history of an entire species, that would be the pictures it would start to reveal - as if that species had painted primitive entities on that planet millions and millions of years before. The infinite mind would see those pictures in ochres or simple stick figures, and it would be able to read the meaning of them and feel the entities that were there when they did it. And feel their breath, if they had their breath, and feel their hands if their hands were dirty or their minds were clean. It could feel everything in that moment when that picture was created. It would know exactly who those entities were.

Then as it moved along through that cave and got deeper through those recesses, it moved further because it understood that time went on and those species would mark more information. And as it marked more information the infinite mind is revealing ever greater knowledge on that species. It moves deeper into the cave and sees structures that start to form on the walls, and it sees spacecraft that may look a little like what it would understand of extra-terrestrials that had come to that planet to offer more knowledge. The infinite mind of course knows all these secrets, so nothing is hidden. As it observes those spacecraft and extra-terrestrial beings it is in that moment with those spacecrafts and with those extra-terrestrial beings. It is one with those entities and knows precisely why they came to that planet at that time and what it was they were offering or taking away. It knows everything about that moment in time on that planet because it is an infinite mind, and nothing is held back.

When it understands all of that it pauses and waits. It sees on the cave walls how time moves slowly, and plants grow, and creatures are formed - large creatures. It sees then within those creatures the truth of how they were formed, and it goes deep into the consciousness of those massive large dinosaurs - I believe you could call them if we are thinking about that planet, but this could be any planet. And as it moves into the consciousness of that entity, that great creature, it connects immediately with the God being that created it in the first place. There it is in a microcosm of moment within, almost like a laboratory of thought. And in that laboratory of thought it is realising how the designs for that creature came together, what mind was devising it and why it was choosing to create that beautiful large physical animal that would stomp along the grounds. As it moves into the eye of that animal it sees ever greater secrets, which of course were never hidden to it. It can go all the way into the eye of that creature, and it takes it then into the eye of the being that first formed the mind of that creature and what it was thinking in that moment. It goes into the mind of that entity for infinite knowing and it sees its motivations, it feels what it was that made it birth with such passion that enormous beautiful creature. And what made it create the scales or the skin or the organs, everything that went into that creature in that moment and is inside of that eye and it is in the mind of the entity that created it.

It waits and then in a moment it can observe where that entity is now and what it is creating. It certainly got past the need to create large creatures with stomping feet and huge bodies and now it is working in finesse, in tiny, like snowflakes in design, and it can see in that mind what it was that stimulated that thought because it is an infinite mind. It pauses on that and goes back to the cave which has now changed in its mind into a different picture because suddenly it is curious, as an infinite mind, about ancient scrolls and scriptures, so it sees them form in its mind. There in front of it the scroll unfolds, and words appear in a script. It can't understand if it were to use its own language, but because it is an infinite mind, of course it can use any language. The meaning in the words comes forward and then it can feel the pen with which they were written and the hand that wrote those words and the knowledge of the brain that went into the writing. Within that brain it has all the codes and all the wisdom that ever wrote those secrets on those scrolls, and why it was in that point of time that it decided those scrolls would be written. And what secrets it was putting down that couldn't be revealed in that point of time. It understands why that scroll was hidden and buried and dug deep under a huge structure.

It can feel the weight of the earth underneath that structure that is holding that scroll in place, never to be found for thousands and thousands of years. Then in a moment it knows of course the result of the reveal of those scrolls as the information suddenly gets seen and known. Because of course it is an infinite mind and has no bounds – ever - it watches in wonder at how those words affects realities. It is not changing anything this mind, so it has no need to alter the words based on what it sees, it is merely an observer of all thought in all realities. It is an infinite mind with no secrets. Its interest is piqued over the secrets held in the temples, many, many pictures of temples formed in that moment. It can see the robed beings and etheric entities walking around in the temples making their prayers, undertaking their disciplines, praying to their varying gods, layers and layers and layers of temples, all different forms instantaneously revealed. And the infinite mind hears the secrets of the rituals that they of course think are so sacred and secret because to them they are. But they don't know of course that they are always observed, and those secrets are not secret to any infinite mind.

What is so important to those entities is so sacred that none other than the greatest initiatives can come and learn those secrets and be part of those initiations and be part of the great temple. And when they arrive there, they know that they have made it somewhere spectacular because it is serene and there is no sound and the walls are closed around them. They feel and know they are somewhere extraordinarily sacred and filled with the secrets and ancient wisdom. It watches the many entities that come into those temples through thousands and thousands of years, then it watches how the temples crumble and secrets get lost: it knows everything. It knows that when those entities were in those temples they truly believed and knew in their hearts and minds that they were one with God because they had been told that herein lay all the secrets they could ever need to bring them closer to that oneness. It watches and knows this; it watches the comings and goings and how the secrets give and then take away.

It goes then from that space to another ritual in the dirt and the fire and it sees the chanting, the singing, the dancing and the whirling and how that fury of energy is revealing sacred knowledge to those entities that are present in that moment - the sacred communion with God that they are. The divine, the totality is watching that swirling, that drumming heat and it can feel the energy that is built in that moment and how the divine spark of life is firing its way through every entity in that space celebrating its communion with God in this secret ancient ritual. It goes into the shamanic priest that established the ritual - that time - and it watches its memory of its grandfather and its grandfather's grandfather. It watches how that sacred ritual is passed down over and over, accepted, and know that this is the one way that you will be in communion with God - which they don't term that - merely that you are connected to the divine spirit.

It understands of course how sacred that ritual is and why the secrets were held by that lineage of pure blood. Without that those entities believed the secrets would be diluted and lost forever because nobody could hold it as pure and true as those that had that blood. The infinite mind sees all this and knows it. It goes down into locked doors slammed shut, government secrets the nobody can know, truth about people, things, and it rifles through the pages. It knows who got assassinated by whom, and who is yet to be hit, and what thought control, mind control programs have been signed off on. It knows all of it. Then in a moment it takes is mind anywhere it chooses because it is infinite, untraceable, un-trackable, unseen, infinite mind. This is a mere glimpse of what your world is, what your reality is when you release the need for secrets with inside of your mind and you open the doors to your infinite knowledge and can know everything that you choose.

If you squander that knowledge and squeeze it into sacred texts, secret rituals that only you can bring forwards because you know the truth, you can know that there is an infinite mind observing your secrets and your rituals and that all is known, and nothing is secret and nor was it. You can know everything if that is your choice. So, open the doors in the vaults of the Vatican and reveal whatever it is you wish to know yourself, and trust your knowing, trust your wisdom, trust in the mind of God that is infinite and has no secrets. Everything can be revealed. What you do with that knowledge then is your choice. As it is so it is

The Great Being Holding Unique Thought

Every time an entity has a unique thought the God of that being applauds and the reason it applauds is because from within that being it knows that the thought is unique - which only the individual entity knows. No one can tell you it is unique, it is a knowingness within, it is unique to you. If you know that you have had a unique thought to you, the God of you is celebrating because in that moment you have etched a new ring on the bark of the tree, the trunk of the tree. And the unique thought, if the entity has enough conviction in their own mind and they are in their own state of being, they will stay with that unique thought long enough to explore its full circle around the ring in the trunk of the tree.

If the entity has a unique thought and then doubts it or shelves it away, the ring will not be etched into the trunk of the tree. The God will wait patiently, which can take a long time because what the entity didn't know was if they didn't move with that unique thought, they were going to be stuck on the same track that they were on before that was already well worn and well explored. It was only through the unique thought that they know is unique to themselves - not in comparison to any other entity anywhere – it is a recognition inside of the soul of the entity - deep within - that knows this was a unique thought and it came to 'me'. And no one has had it before in just the way I thought it. So, the entity with the unique thought and the training, the teaching, the initiation or the direction from within, knows enough to stay with that thought even if it seems to be irrational. As they explore that thought they may not think about it often. All they need to do is know that it is there and not shelve it or doubt it. During the course of their life this unique thought will guide them, and it may be that their whole life is only guided by this one unique thought because that is enough. To be a unique thought, to have a unique thought is enough for many to see through an entire lifetime and to continue to contemplate the magnificence of that thought.

This great being is the mind that holds all the unique thoughts - it is like the master. The joy with which all the unique thoughts are held is truly beautiful because this great being knows that when one unique thought is received by any individual it will create an expansion in that individual's reality, and in all reality based on how that individual works with the unique thought. This would seem to imply that this great being is the mind of God because it holds all unique thoughts. The mind of the being that holds all the unique thoughts is peppered throughout everything; it doesn't hold them close locked in a cupboard. It is peppered throughout everything so that at any moment any entity can receive the divine inspiration from its self that is a unique thought.

Now, this great being is of such a mind that all thoughts have been thought, all experiences have been had, and all wisdom is known - it is the mind of God. So, there are no unique thoughts, but it is the energy and the feeling of the unique thought that this master holds, and it is peppered through everything. As that glimmer of light is received, that divine inspiration that your soul sings to you and says this is a unique thought for me to explore, your heart feels wide open and there is a skip in your step you have never felt before. You can't imagine how great this is going to be now that you get to explore this unique idea that nobody has ever thought of, or not like you have. That energy, that magical energy is what this great being holds for you ... and you ... and you ... and everyone.

It is a great being because it elected to hold true and pure the uniqueness of thought and how that uniqueness should always be treasured and honoured and revered. Without this great being peppered throughout all reality, unique thought would have no place because its creation - its great mind - is to hold intact the joy and the magic and the energy that comes with every unique thought. Its primary purpose for being is to be a God with a bounty of freshly picked flowers, energetic ideas, that any entity in any reality can be inspired from. It exists to hold that in place forever so that when all thoughts have been thought, all discoveries have been made, all knowledge has been reached, and lethargy may set in or apathy or a sense there is nowhere else to go in whatever reality you are, it is holding the energy of the unique thought for you so that you will always be inspired. What you do with it after that, as described, is your choice.

Could you have a mind that would always be inspired to find its unique thought, in which case this entity would not need to exist? It would mean that every single being in every reality - physical or nonphysical - would always know how to seek its own inspiration or unique thought. But just in case not every entity can do that, this great mind holds a bounty of inspiration intact, known, realised - fabulous energy of unique thought. And when you go to it, if you seek unique thought, it will open its arms out wide and say ... Choose anything you want from my bounty; I have a plethora on offer. And that is why unique thought often seems to come very much out of the unknown, left of field, because that entity is showing you when you contemplate or request unique thought and inspiration in your life, it is showing you on an unconscious divine great mind level - go choose, play with this in wonder and delight because you are divine and it is your right to experience the joy of unique thought and where it takes you.

It is difficult to be inspired forever and ever in every lifetime in every reality because there are many, many, realities that lack the energy and the light of inspiration. There are many realities that thought is not even given opportunity to be explored, let alone discover a unique thought. This great being has purposely created its self to know every unique thought at its inception. It is an energetic field with no words and no pictures but it is a created reality that wherever you are at, in whatever consciousness, in whatever reality, when you reach that unique thought, that energetic field, it will materialise in front of your consciousness, in front of your mind, whatever would be relevant and apt for you to explore. How is this so? Because this is the mind of God.

The Great Being that Holds the Codes to DNA

There is a great being that takes in everything that we have already discussed and more that will come after this. If it were to sit in front of you it would look wise and the wisdom would be draped over it – long, long, hair and wise eyes that would look at you and as you looked at it you would see eternal knowingness as if it was looking directly into your soul and knew everything about you. This great being, this wise one, could be the starting point for all this information because it retains all wisdom. Let's call it HE. HE is God. HE is all knowing and omniscient. HE is all powerful and HE is all wisdom and HE is nothing like you think he is because retained with all that wisdom, each strand of his hair, is a DNA strand, and those DNA strands are all different. The hair is long so if he were to run his fingers through his hair, he is communicating with all those strands of DNA and all the information of all the beings that were created from those DNA strands. That wisdom grows from the top of his head so must indeed be his mind that can create such DNA, such wisdom, and know that the tiny twists and turns of those life codes will create such realities from within and without.

One strand of his hair is not one entity, it is one type of DNA. Are we getting a picture? He knows that as he holds that strand of DNA plucked out of his head in this moment, it provides the code for the physical make up of every species on that planet and the interlinked interwoven relationships and experiences that occur based on that DNA. Within the strand as he holds it and runs his fingers over it, he is able to reflect upon how that DNA, that particular code of DNA, creates all the thoughts and interlinked mind on that planet and all the interrelationships because they are a reflection of the DNA. The DNA is creating on the planet all the things that are happening between and within and beyond each creature, each physical form.

Because the DNA is such a precisely created tool this great being with its long hair and its wise eyes will be familiar to all because it is wearing your DNA. It is the fountainhead of all life. Let's imagine for a moment that the entity we speak about, this great being, is no longer with a body and that head of hair is like a fountain. And from the centre of the great mind burst forth all the rivulets of the fountain and each of those rivulets is its own unique DNA pattern. That pattern just spills forth and lands on the planet and seeds the life on that planet based on the DNA that comes from the fountainhead. As that life starts to build and change and grow, the DNA of that planet and the species on it, is built from this mind. Not by chance, not by evolution or gradual shift in change. From this mind comes that DNA, all of it.

So, whether you observe it as the wise man with the long hair and each strand a piece of DNA, or a fountain at the head spring of all life, you are getting close to seeing what this mind is. Because you are getting close to knowing what this mind is you would be starting to understand the structure of all life when it first put together the building blocks that later became created reality. You would know that this great mind had within it the understanding of how those building blocks would come together so it already had the vision prior to starting the building of where they were going to end up. Where did DNA start? From the fountainhead of all life, and each tiny piece of that code was carefully placed stacked one on the other, one beside the other, to interplay and create life forms that would have the same template. This great mind, entity, already knew what those templates would be, so it has within its mind every template of every DNA and why those templates were made. The way that the templates were then formed into creatures and beings, physicals, the entity did not need to know that. From its mind came the templates that other minds could then create from.

To be able to create these templates it had to recognise first how those templates would allow and form into replication of life. It had to know how that unique code would replicate in every different species and in some of the DNA strands in its hair, those templates, the way that that DNA replicates is nothing like what you understand now. There are no cells, there is no haploid or diploid, there is no intercourse, there is no reproduction. Some of those strands of DNA are so unique that the species that is developed from that DNA template is stamped with the code of the DNA that holds the form fixed forever.

If you contemplate this entity and you start to envisage the fountainhead, the effect on your mind and your body will be instantaneous in so much as you are starting to be in receipt of numerous strands of DNA just by contemplating this great mind. As it is stated some of those strands of DNA hold the same code forever, meaning they don't have to replicate into different cells. You could take a strand of that hair, know that it is in your hair and you would always have that code in yourself for that particular template. The exploration of what that code offers you is not the specialty of this being as discussed. It merely created the templates, but what you would know then is that you have a template that is not from the original design that your body may be made out of. This is only useful if you wish to have an exploration into that mind. The greater recognition is that this great mind knew from the beginning of all life how to masterfully put together these templates. It didn't happen by accident. Every one of those codes is a carefully designed structure with a trillion opportunities and variables.

Great Beings - At the Pinnacle of Thought

At the pinnacle of thought reside a series of great beings. This series of great beings is a collective. The reason that they are a collective is because they have elected to create their greater minds in direct communion with each other, side-by-side. The pinnacle where they reside is reached after a long and arduous journey and in some way that marks their acceptance into this series. The reason they are called a series is because each part in the series makes a whole. They support themselves in the understanding of the long and arduous journey it took them to reach this pinnacle of thought. You don't shortcut your way here. These are the minds that have travelled to the bowels of consciousness of realities, exposed themselves to the atrocious and the maligned. They are the minds that have no qualms residing in dark zones of thought for long periods.

At the pinnacle where they are, they are the culmination of great wisdom because they elected to be the ones who would wear the darkest consciousnesses. They did not create dark consciousnesses, they merely subject themselves to those realities in order to experience them. Maybe it's a bit like being an undercover policeman. They are wearing the guise of those realities long enough that they will understand everything about them and can then be one greater mind with infinite knowledge on the dark sides of realities without being that or caught up in it, even though at times their role as undercover indicated that they had to lose themselves for as long as they could to truly experience what it was to be that type of consciousness. This is why there is a series and not an individual because their communication between the entities is what is required to bring some out after they have been in the bowels of this reality. The greater mind that they are is the mind that entities who know of them will consult to understand more directly how it is that dark and destructive thoughts and energies, realities and ongoing fixations occur, and can be better understood. Their role is not to judge, of course. They give no opinions on their collated wisdom - merely state it as it is.

This pinnacle of thought, series of great minds, is not easily accessible. When you visit with these great beings you will find your journey to meet them is also long and arduous because they will only accept you into their consciousness if they know you hold infinite wisdom on the balance between light and dark and are beyond the state of judging evil. Their recognition of your consciousness comes when they look through you and see the many realities you have traversed. Not because they are looking for when you have been evil or dark, that's not their intention. What they are observing through and beyond all your self is that you are without reproach for things that you do not understand. They know if you come to them and you have in your consciousness elements that have struck upon times or places or things or peoples or entities that are horrific and horrible to you, and that that chord is still strumming in your consciousness, you will be rejected.

These are not beings that you seek out as masters, guides or teachers, gods to pray to. They are greater minds holding a collective of extraordinary wisdom that is approached by greater minds. An entity on its journey through consciousness will often meet thought forms and realities that are exceptionally debilitating or trapping in a way that they do not know how to move beyond. In those instances, it is these greater minds that will navigate your way out. They accept the creation of all reality and therefore they accept and acknowledge that reality holds evil, and darkness and they acknowledge this of course without judgement.

The Compendium of Thought – Greater Mind.

This is one of 13 sections please visit www.thecompendiumofthought.com to find out more.

Their minds are in communion with each other as a single circuit so that each is supported in their journey to the darkest thoughts and none will be trapped or caught without a way out. This is what gives them the strength to always be able to explore these realms. It seems to be macabre to wish to do this, however for these entities it is not macabre, it is the mind of God in action and they are cognisant of why they created to know this, to be this, and to hold this. It is not to be saviour, it is not to form a created reality alternate to that which holds darkness, it is an extraordinary creation that they hold all knowledge on all dark forces – collectively. They will not give to any entity all knowledge on all dark forces because if they were to do that, they would be tipping the balance. Their acceptance of darkness and their love of the diversity of all reality, will ensure that the safety of the creation of darkness is eternally preserved because they do not share everything they know from their experiences in those realms. This again is why they are a series, because if one were to do that, the group is what is required to hold the entirety of the wisdom in place. So, one entity, although connected with the series, is unable to give away all the secrets. This is a magnificent creation.

All entities are exposed to dark and light within and without. Very few entities will have power and the great mind that can allow them to be eternally exposed to darkness and dark thoughts and not become them, such as the power. This pinnacle of thought, this series of entities, is sharing their consciousness and a glimpse into their consciousness because they know they are great minds. They are eternal beings that will never shy from this responsibility to hold in one place all wisdom on darkness, including any new thought that is created because they have feelers - frequency lines is another term - that attune them to all dark thoughts, even at their inception. You cannot think something dark and not be recorded by them. They are the mind of God in action. They divulge this consciousness of course without fear that you can reach them – ever, unless you are of like mind in terms of being a great mind that will not judge darkness and evil.

You are completely transparent to their consciousness because this is the mind that they are. They see you forever: your past and your future and all potential realities that you will be destined to experience, they observe. They know if you approach them and you are not like them in your level of consciousness - not in your choice of who you are necessarily - you cannot know anything of what they know because they remain at the pinnacle of thought and there they will stay. Are the dark entities, dark thoughts, dark realities and forces aware of them? For the most part no - for similar reasons as just described. Unless you can meet their mind as a greater consciousness you will be ignorant to them. The temptation to understand this literally and to make use of what these entities are, will start to activate most likely in any being that focuses on doing good or benevolence because the innate nature is that you would like to make things better and to 'fix' realities to be supportive of the light. Hence at the completion of this piece of wisdom, this door will close and unless you are an exact frequency match with their minds you will not think of them again as it is.

Great Beings - As Over Souls

There are many beings who don't understand nor choose to recognise the vast mind of God and the great mind that oversees these beings is helping to keep them eternally safe from their own record of life. By this it means that those many consciousnesses that are isolated from the great mind of God in all ways, for the period of time that they are isolated these great beings - of which there are a few - will ensure that the other lifetimes or experiences or realities that the entity has moved through, do not impede the growth of that entity in the lifetime where it has elected to be ignorant to the greater mind of God.

These great beings - we have named them a few times already - are the overlords, the over soul entities that look after groups of beings who for whatever reason are in the depths of an experience determining that they are separate from any connection with their greater consciousness. The reason that these great beings are able to hold a role as an overlord or an over soul is because they have within their mind the collation of numerous minds under their care. They are not dissimilar to the great teachers only their purpose is not to teach nor to guide, it is merely there to ensure the safe passage of that entity in its particular chosen circumstance of experience, and to hold at bay other experiences that that entity may have had which would create confusion and disillusionment.

The over soul - great beings - are here and present in all known realities and moments. They are here in this room right now and their presence in this room is as much because the information on them will go a long way to helping others understand that they are always supported - forever and ever. You are never alone even if you feel to be alone. Your feeling of being alone will be because you wanted to feel alone and then you learnt from that experience to go on and be ever greater in your sovereign power as an individual. The entities that are present in this space feel loving because they are. Their love for you is part of the reason why as you awaken your consciousness from being in a state of separation from the great mind of God, or the knowledge of the totality that you are, it's the reason why you start to feel connected to other entities who are nonphysical as you raise in your awareness. That is because these entities, the soul guide, over soul, overlords are always with you whether you know that they are there or not.

You can't rely on them to determine how you move through your reality; it is not their role to do that. Their role is to facilitate and love you in your individual journey. The way that they facilitate is that at any moment if you call upon God, in whatever way you may call upon God, you will get the feeling of love. That is what they are. One of the endearing features of us as over souls is that we are present no matter what chaos is occurring in any entity's life. That means we are able to be completely neutral and our mind is in most parts unfathomable by you because we are in one sense our own sovereign expression of our self and at the same time, we are overseeing many – hundreds, thousands, millions of - entities in all guises. How we remain sovereign when we are so interconnected with all those minds, is part of the experience we moved ourselves through to become an over soul of many others.

It is a journey that is taken by only certain entities that choose to do that. The path is well trodden. We are not teachers we are overlords, over souls. The minds that we are, are connected with each other and in such form, we are able to support and guide as a unit that is communicating together as a mind of God. If you took in your mind the sense that there are an infinite number of entities expressing in any moment, and that those entities, depending on their choices at that time, have over soul entities supporting them they are in communiqué with each other. So, a great network of our mind is linked. It means that not only are you supported but you are also connected via our mind with the entire mind of God because we hold - if it were to be numbers - millions of you in our mind in great love, just as God would hold you in great love. We are like a representative of God because we love you infinitely, and we love you without exception for any way that you express yourself.

It has been often seen that we are almost observed as God; we are in many cases gods. However, we are not the totality of the mind of God for that is how our connections with each other are ensuring that we always have this complete awareness emanating from us, which is another reason you may feel you are in the presence of a God - extraordinary love. Love that penetrates through the depths of any being and recognises the eternal nature of every single entity. By always recognising the eternal nature of every single entity no matter how it chooses to express, we hold you forever as God, as the mind of God because all we see in you is your eternal nature. That is why from us you feel connected and in communion with God. We are overseeing your eternal nature as the beings we are.

If we did not exist then it is a potential reality that numerous entities fall off the edge, meaning they become so disillusioned in their created reality and so lost in their own created reality that they never find a way to know and be their eternal self. In other words, we are the great beings that let you know God is always with you and you are always loved and always supported. We are hope, we are your eternal nature reflected back to you and our energy will always guide you to recognise that, even if it takes many lifetimes to move to that state, or many varied expressions. We do not like to be named although you have named us in many different ways as archangels. To us that is a limitation, but it does come some way to explaining why you feel such connection to certain entities such as the archangels.

Great Beings - A Collective

Sometimes great beings will travel together like a set of stars that move together in a certain formation. You could imagine this formation and know that it has been carefully and geometrically designed to move those great beings in unison and in pointed purposeful reality. This particular collective of great beings looks in a shape like a misshapen triangle with elongated sides and one point. As the point focuses on to a location where it would like to land its consciousness, the remaining group of great beings that are within that shape, join. It's like there is a directional rudder directing the collective and yet the collective is required when it reaches its destination.

All entities in this collective play a role and their role is to represent to the receivers of their knowledge that the universe holds collective consciousness that works in unison and harmony and is not in contradiction or disagreement. On the earth plane there have been periods where entities have been exposed to these collectives, and it will be the case that they term themselves as 'they' or 'us', because it is not possible to be an 'I' or a 'one' in the communication to any entity because this would be an inaccurate truth. Their consciousness resonates as oneness because it is as described in harmony and in agreement with each other, but it is a collective. If you are exposed to a collective, what it is showing you via these great beings is that there is harmony in the universe and that mind can meet other mind and be so clearly in agreement with the same purpose, direction, presence and representation of itself that it does not need to hold any separation from its fellow beings.

It is so aware of the totality that it does not need to defend its individual status or position in any reality to be a unique creator, it is a collective. The collective in consciousness, when it arrives at its destination brings great magnitudes of love and the reason that it brings so much love with it, is because it is showing to any individual that it may be exposing itself to, that this type of energy where love is unbound and love for others - including self - can be so cohesive that you no longer feel any separation from fellow beings. This is what you are exposed to when you meet the great beings of a collective. You cannot separate any, and yet they are not clones of each other. If you were to observe the collective, what you would see are numerous lights vibrating at the same frequency, rate, pace, dimension, taking up exactly the same amount of space and separate from each other, but contained in this formation. It is the formation that they created to hold their consciousnesses together in the single union of a collective.

When the collective was formed it was formed as an empty vessel that these consciousnesses then could align themselves with knowing that they were going to be part of a collective. When you reside as a great being within this collective, your sense of self dissipates so that you are not quite sure where one of the beings starts and one of them stops and where you are in between. This merging of consciousnesses, this merging of self, is richly rewarding because you begin to recognise the fluidity of nature, the fluidity of life, and cease to be attached to the individual expression in any way. You truly are a gift to reality if you elect to be part of a collective because of this divine harmony and union that you bring.

As you touch other minds who are singular in expression, you bring with you an innate sense of the eternal nature of love that is the mind of God because suddenly the individual feels the intimate connection with everything and the fluidity of all life. The individual will then open its consciousness to the recognition and the ability of sharing all thought and being one with God, which is everything. This is a profound and divine experience for the individual as its shift in exposure to the collective. One of the most endearing features of the exposure to the collective is that in observation you know it is a collective and yet you feel no separation. And therein the entity observing this is being witness to how God can love everything in the same way. It is the observation of this magnificent collective that brings this truth forward.

The Compendium of Thought – Greater Mind.

This is one of 13 sections please visit www.thecompendiumofthought.com to find out more.

This is one of the many purposes of the great beings that reside as a collective and traverse realities to bring such truth through. If you could imagine warring factions in galactic terms where peace is very, very, far from any mind, and a collective of great beings passes through the atmosphere of that plane to be observed by few and many, witness to how it is somewhere in some way, that great minds can work in harmony and not against. As this touches the consciousness of that warring nation, galactic battle, something is imbued into their mind and their heart that the collective represents, and they can then go into discussions and negotiations with greater mind at play that in some way has the capacity now to work out how harmony can be created. This is one of many examples that the great collective affects.

Great Beings - X Chronicles

When we communicate with great beings and bring them into our space, we are inviting the future to be part of our reality. Each of the great beings that has graced our presence has provided an understanding of how great minds think and move and what sort of consciousness there is that one could match towards, and then be greater than by nature of understanding that there are these extraordinary minds in the universe. There are these extraordinary beings that have been through so much wisdom that they then determine what they would like to be of themselves.

When they determine what they would like to be of themselves it's because it is the culmination of all their wisdom that has brought them to that point. When we match our consciousness with these entities via the reading of the consciousness, the contemplation of it, and the building of the pathways that make us frequency specific or in alignment with those entities, what we then have an opportunity to do is take that wisdom and knowledge and better it.

When we better it, it is because we recognise that the universe is an ever-evolving concept of reality and we are part of that. So we gleam all of the knowledge and the integration of those consciousnesses that we have been exposed to and then we state that, "I am all of that and more." What it does is it allows the entity - that individual who is making the statement - to grace the halls of future thought and future mind in such a way that they are more than the collective of those great beings.

Now, we've only touched on a few different extraordinary minds. There are millions of brilliant entities all over consciousness that are holding this unique framework and each one is so different that we could be here for a long time to discuss the differences and be exposed to them. What is great about this is that it allows the entity - this individual as it reads and contemplates the consciousness of such mind - to be part of it with an open mind.

Regarding an open mind, it's important to understand that an open mind does not reject any consciousness. It allows the consciousness to be part of it, and observed, and absorbed, and then it goes on to create from that. If an open mind has a rejection clause in it - maybe the consciousness that it is exposed to is dark, or forbidden, or fearful, or angry, or tyrannical, mean. If the open mind has a rejection clause what will happen is that it won't absorb the totality of the information and the wisdom from the great beings because it will be trying to retain enough of its expression thinking that it is greater than what they are.

We move forward with an open mind without a rejection clause, therefore the open mind of the individual that is reading and contemplating these great beings - in other words being integrated with the frequency of them and taking in the great essence of what they are and all the information they represent - then gets to make its own creation based on that because it hasn't judged or rejected any of the aspects. This way we have full expansion of consciousness and mind and not expansion with edges cut out of it because the entity decided that they did not like what that other being was thinking.

If you think about it as the mind of God - which judges nothing - it's saying you are all these consciousnesses put together, what will you do with this now? The mind of God does not ignore some of those consciousnesses and say I'm seven of them but not the other two because I don't like how they think or what they have created for themselves to be. The mind of God is all of it.

So here we have every great being that has already graced us with its presence, and the frequency field of extraordinary mind, that we then gather together as our own wisdom, sit with it and recognise that we are also that great consciousness. We then move forward in our own creation of a self in its expanded state of consciousness. This way our minds are eternally meeting the minds that are at the forerunner of thought and at the edge of all reality because we are not afraid to be everything that all the other minds are thinking at that level of consciousness.

This is really key because if we are to continue experiencing the knowledge and the wisdom of these great beings, we have to do it with the open mind - minus the rejection clause on any state of mind. We have to hold such an open understanding just as we are God, of course which we are.

Great Beings - An Open Mind

The value of having an open mind is that it lets you explore infinite possibilities and you will never accept no as an answer, as an impossible or an improbable. An open mind means that everything is open to you. You don't have to struggle to defend your position because what you think is just as likely to be tramped upon, changed, reconsidered in the next moment, because your mind is that open. When you have an infinitely open mind you can hear the words and the wisdom of any entity and accept that as truth in that moment, because indeed it is truth in that moment. You don't even have to decide if you like that idea or concept. If it appeals to your greater wisdom, if it is accepted through the collated knowledge that you already hold, you are not washing concepts, ideas, thoughts, knowledge, through any pathways that would have to find their way home within your mind so they fit the parameters of what you think.

You are as fluid and moving as an infinite consciousness due to your open mind. It doesn't stagnate at any corner, get stuck on repetition. As quickly as it understands something it can open another door that discredits what it understood, and it doesn't fight for that. It allows it to be and it moves through that door effortlessly, gracefully and accepts another state of wisdom - for it is all wisdom. Through this open mind you will see so many things. Some will be atrocious, and some will be deliciously glorious. But as quickly as you approach the atrocious the open mind does not fascinate with the macabre, it merely knows that this is part of being an open mind. It can't hide behind the things that there are, the facts that there are, the realities that are presented. It doesn't discredit anything; it accepts it all because it has no attachment to any of it.

It can be your greatest figment of imagination and then purposeful realism can hear the voice of dictatorial opinionated powerful mind that attempts to sway all that may hear or be exposed to its consciousness into its own form of understanding. It can be exposed to this with millions of others and the open mind will move as fluidly from that state as it will to the next, where it is on the ground listening to a mouse speak with its tiny voice. Because the open mind is - as it is stated - open it is incredibly pliable and incredibly manipulable but there is no fear in it being manipulated because the sheer nature of being open means that the manipulation cannot hold. The moment another thought approaches it and reaches it, it is open to that too. It doesn't fear itself in any way because it is not trying to defend itself. It is so open the lords and the gods can communicate through and with and of it.

It is not foolish however. It is not so foolish that it will stand and shout its latest piece of knowledge for all to hear because that is the latest and greatest it has been exposed to. If it wishes to communicate, the open mind will do so with an open mind, meaning that its words will be carefully selected and communicated so that they are opening minds, hearts, ideas, eyes, to the greater truths that may lay beyond what those closed minds had previously held true for themselves. But it will always say, "Go and find out for yourself in your own open-minded understanding. I am not the one to tell you because you have your own open mind." It opens the doors for others because it knows how to hold an eternal open mind. This would imply that it has no judgement and almost no opinion, yet somehow it does have a direction or else it would just be the everything.

The Compendium of Thought – Greater Mind.

This is one of 13 sections please visit www.thecompendiumofthought.com to find out more.

It has a direction which is open and if you match to this open mind and it feels worthy of your presence beside it because you have not got the judgement and the filters that others would have at play when it offers you exposure to its greater knowings, it will take you through doors you have never been through because it knows you will not fear what it is you are exposed to. Or attempt to defend your position against it. “I know this, that possibly can’t be true”, is the quickest way for an open mind to retract from you because its journey with you is not to show you what it knows, it’s more to show you what it is to have an open mind that has the potential to know.

The way that it forms its direction comes from the innate love of God that there is in the exploration of life and consciousness - known and unknown. Because its direction comes from this infinite state of love for all life, its open mind will never harm it. It will always enrich its own life with greater and greater forays into thought and then into experience of that thought, for it is open to the experiences also. To state that it is not foolish, it knows that whilst it will be exposed to many different variables, it does not need to bring direct relationship into its own reality or variables that it is not interested in experiencing - terror or war to name a few. But it is open to that reality that does exist and that others do experience, and it won’t hold back from that or it would close the door to its mind and never know the truth of why those things were there.

Sometimes it feels as if there is a great overseeing force standing beside it saying, “Look at this, observe this, step over here, you haven’t explored over here”, and always it will do so without hesitation, protection, for its great mind has infinite capacity to wear whatever knowledge is presented to it. It will understand polarity - both sides of the story if you like to put it as such - it won’t stand on the fence, opinion less, directionless. It will clearly direct its attention into exploring based on its knowingness that this is a more righteous path, so its next experiences in its open mind will open doors via that righteous path. It is not closing the doors on the opposing counter forces that are untoward and ‘evil’ and is not afraid to see those or be witness to them. It just knows there is so much more to explore, and why would one spend more time than necessary going down those rabbit holes, although they exist. If one came up to it and said, “Read this or know this, you need to know this”, it will open its mind and heart to that moment, and with that same open mind devour the information with the great love that this too is another creation of God in life. And that that creation is magnificent however it is presented.

The magic of the open mind - it is true such a mind can create more wonderful ideas than many of its counterparts because as stated, it doesn’t take no for an answer. It knows that there are others out there with a mind as open as its own, and they will have discovered what it is it is asking to create or something close to that. All it need do is be very aware that through its open mind it can open any door and all doors are open. Because all doors are open, all knowledge can be received and the answers to its questions can be formed should it choose to be aware of what those answers are. There is more joy in this mind because it knows no bounds and cannot be held by another – ever. And it is relatively rare that one would be so open in mind and in heart that it could understand how to stand steadfast and true throughout all the doors that it opens. It is steadfast and true to itself so you will always know who this entity is wherever it is seen, found. Because it is true to itself, the innate consciousness that makes up its core when its mind is open, open, open, is unshakeable and unwaverable, and that core is connected to the direct love of God - nothing more and nothing less.

So, for as many doors as its mind is opening into and experiencing, the core truth of who it is, that great divine love within, is so solid it too does not need to defend it, it just is. Because of this solid core of great love for God, it will be directed to ever greater potentials on its explorations through thought, creations known and unknown. It is so loved for what it is to hold these too together - to be strong and powerful with an open mind. This is a characteristic born of you and exemplary for many and when you meet this type of entity, of which there are very few, you will know that you have touched something truly profound that has a heart as open and wide and infinitely loving as its mind.

If it gazes off into space for a moment or you catch a glimpse of a quiet repose, or a request to retreat into silence, you respect that entity because you can know that those moments are so precious in the opening of minds everywhere. Without those moments the open mind will find ways - because remember it never takes no for an answer - through the battlefields where little silence lays and it will build greater opportunity for its mind to continue to explore the limitless potential that it is open to. And it is not fearful of the way that this may come about because it is such a joy for it to reach those heightened states of understanding and be shown such treasures that lay everywhere. If you are graced with its presence - there may be times when it may invite you to move beside it - you can know that you have been exposed to a great mind. As it is so it is.

Please send this to anyone you choose. All we ask is, you let them know of the website The Compendium of Thought so they have their own experiences there.