The Compendium of Thought

Symposium of Thought - Introduction

In the symposium of thought we gather with great minds and we bring into one place a collective of consciousness that allows the greatest exploration of thought to be exposed and illuminated. The symposium of thought moves through light waves and gathers the consciousness of the greatest aspect of each individual who is present and part of that symposium.

In this way the entities that are joining us in the symposium are joining us as the greatest aspect of themselves, whether they have the ability to turn up as that or not. Because the symposium travels in light waves it is connecting to that highest frequency aspect of themselves and bringing it into the physical body so that when we start to communicate and divulge this information, this great sharing of information, it is coming from aspects of the self that may not have previously been heard or opened for the individual.

This is a miracle in action. That individual will feel so attuned to the information because it is from them self and yet completely illuminated by it because it is beyond what they have previously ever touched on. The reason we know that they have previously not touched on this information from them self is because this is what the symposium is designed to do - to bring into form the consciousness of each individual who is present so that they may hear in recorded word their own greater thoughts.

And from those greater thoughts they take these away and they become springboards for their own exploration into their own divine consciousness. This is a symposium of thought. If you were nonphysical and you could envisage what it actually is in light terms, it is a gathering into one location of high frequency light waves that are carrying information – consciousness - that is profound by nature of the highest frequencies that it is. This set of light waves comes together into one place and exchanges this consciousness so that a greater understanding can come of this exchange.

When you are nonphysical it is much easier to comprehend what this is about because you bring to the symposium the totality of yourself and all your collated wisdom. You lay it out for the sharing of all these experiences which then adds to the great vessel or the mind of God. Bringing all these extraordinary minds together is what the symposium of thought is about and as we commune in one space, we recognise that we are joining and becoming more oneness than ever before. What we then take away from that experience as the divine beings is the entirety of all that consciousness which we then apply into our individual expression wherever that may be.

If you took a group of extraordinary beings, divine minds, shared intimately with them the wisdom of your experiences, your knowledge, your unique individual expression, your creations, your contemplations, and then you move off that group garnering all the knowledge that is there from the others and taking that with you, because it is formed as light it moves effortlessly. What happens then is you have additional rings, bands, on your light form so that great orb you are leaves the symposium with full understanding, which is observed as additional lines, rings of knowledge.

The Compendium of Thought – Symposium of Thought.

An orb then if you were to imagine what it would look like on departure versus arrival, is brighter, more defined, stronger and may have expanded into additional rings of self. That then becomes its expression as it moves off the symposium of thought and into its new realities of creation. Or indeed back to where it was prior - home, physical, nonphysical. Wherever it goes it takes the symposium of thought and collation of knowledge with it and it is so intimately absorbed into it that it is unable to discern where that information stopped and started once it departs because it is now with the oneness of the mind of God that the symposium represents.

There is a divine field that has been created in this symposium of thought that will allow the immersion of the information so that it will attach to the entity in light fields and bypass any resistance or fear that may be manifest through the physical personality of a human or any other physical being. In doing so we recognise that the only entities present in the symposium of thought are those that are vibrationally aligned as non-polarised benevolent beings. This is who the symposium of thought will attract and is for and in that space, we know then that each individual will joyfully absorb the consciousness via the light fields of the others that are present with them.

The way that the translation into words occurs will be profound and of course enriching when the individual departs because the knowledge has been recorded into the light fields and then translated through into physical manifest reality via verbal dialogue. This can then be referred back to other points in time if the entity wishes to share or recall its experiences and reconnect if it is required with those higher light fields where it was when it attended the symposium of thought.

We welcome your presence there and we know you will be richly endowed with divine consciousness and extraordinary experiences.

Symposium of Thought - Part One

When we first met, we weren't in any way connected with the earth. We were in a plane of existence where our realities were intermingled and enmeshed in a purposeful understanding that what we were going to do in the future on a planet called Earth was to work together and bring greater thought into form on this planet. All those moments ago when we met, we knew each other very well. We knew and understood the direct communication of extraordinary minds that have an overarching promise to bring through evolution to all beings, whether they are aware of their awakened state or not.

This Symposium of Thought is the collation of great minds in a request that they come together in unity to provide and bring to bear a singular purpose in the way that the words are spoken, the information is offered, and the divine is revealed. When we knew each other all those times ago, this was the most simple and obvious play as we all understood of course that we are one in our singular purpose and understanding, and that there was no separation because the divine so strongly held within each of us. Here we find ourselves not further away from each other, but in some way separate. As we work to bring truth and open hearts and minds, and affect the great change that is going on on the planet, the need to form a unified understanding where no matter which way an entity would turn, they would know that the resonance of those great voices speaking forth for the future were in harmonious tone and able to provide a unified front.

Diversity as we all know is key to evolution. Without diversity stagnation and plagiarism of thought will start to erode evolution. This Symposium of Thought is to bring together each individual so they may recognise and seek the visual physical manifested reality in front of them that we are all here together now. And that once where we were with a grand idea and purpose for this planet in all our extraordinary knowledge and powerful divinity, we are now physically manifest as beings on this planet, who through the physical communication with each other will bring to pass a unity of consciousness in form yet to be experienced. The voices of our respective understandings uplift many as we know of course they will. What happens now? What happens now when we meet and look to each other in the uniqueness of the way that our spirit has driven us to offer such knowledge to the planet at this time and know that what we are holding together is such divine unity?

This Symposium of Thought has been long coming. If all the spiritual leaders on the planet at this time can come together it will be as we always knew it would be. The ability to transcend the physical and communicate in consciousness is within the scope of each individual's reality, we are already here in divine consciousness and community at the Symposium of Thought. Let's meet and know that when we meet in the physical manifested self, the science of a unified field befriends all. To take your hand, look into your eyes, to be physically manifest and see each other is the greatest gift of God. We have done this before, let's do it now. This gathering of the Symposium of Thought, the pinnacle of great voice on the planet at this time is our way of weeding out the truth and letting the divine shine ever brighter so that fraudulence and ambiguity and lack of integrity will be stamped out across spiritual minds - as above so below.

Symposium of Thought - Part Two

When we last attended the Symposium of Thought we were ancient beings, we were ancient minds. The leaders of planets, the leaders of space stations and galactic explorations. We were the ones who were setting the standards for all our peoples, followers, or subjects, and leading the way as the creators. When we last came together, we knew who we were. We did not question our sovereignty or our methods. We were powerful in our own right and recognised ourselves as the God that we knew we were.

When we attended the Symposium of Thought we came in our head-dress and our robes and our staffs and our wands, our warrior costumes, our finery, because we were the lords of our realities. Remember the Pharaohs and the Kings and the Queens, the rulers, the leaders. We came together nigh on eternity ago to share and exchange our wisdom of the universe that we knew and know. At that symposium all those times ago we came together in a truce that would recognise forever the expansive nature of life and the part we all play individually. And that we would keep intact all realities for their own rich exploration, and we would bring our peoples - those protégés of life that would lead in their thoughts forward under our guidance - whether they be genetic offspring, DNA replications, the same species.

We came together as the leaders championing the right for each of our species, each of our unique classification codes to thrive and grow, integrate and compare, challenge and share with the burgeoning universe. At this great exchange of thought each leader stood at the platform keenly aware of its beautiful self, be it Lemurian, be it Arcturian, HIM, HER, Fairy Queens, the antecedent of Egyptian Pharaohs. We would stand at that platform - each leader - and expose our truth like we had opened our soul to be revealed, our wishes and our dreams and our hopes for all of our peoples, our love for the uniqueness of which our lives were expressed, our beautiful planet or plane we would exist upon, the way that our light would shine and touch life, and how the creations on our worlds were a unique representation of our species.

We came to share this at this glorious Symposium of Thought all those eons ago. And in the sharing, each understood the other because it was a peaceful congregation. The warriors of the universe and the warring ones, the harsh clinical consciousnesses, stark minds of grey, the lizard that could see right through you and manipulate a thought to make its own. We were all there at that great Symposium of Thought. We came together that time to agree on one thing. That no matter how we each expressed - whether that be as a destructive force, a power determined to break rather than create, or a lithe soft elegant being that would live only for the expression of a melody for its own beings to hear - we came together that time, all of us, leaders, to agree on this one clear fact.

That we would allow the uniqueness to thrive and whether destruction was in our path or not, we agreed to continue to recognise the uniqueness in each created reality for the opportunities it would bring all. In that agreement we knew somehow, of course, that we were holding all life sovereign and revered just as God.

Many years have passed since this time of the ancient ones at that Symposium of Thought. Deterioration has occurred, destruction manifest and still we hold that truce ever present in our hearts that all life is revered however it chooses to express.

So, the Symposium of Thought is alive and well back then, and now, and you would do well to remember it for the gods that we are uniquely supporting the diversity of all life. All of us were in agreement for we knew that there could be no other way for life to continue to be the rich repertoire of thought and experience and expression that it so richly deserved to be. We have not forgotten this. It is in all of us - that agreement. For those entities who contemplated at that point turning their back on what this meant, knew their demise and destruction was an imminent casualty of that decision. We knew we had to agree to support all life - forever - in allowing the uniqueness and diversity of expression to exist.

This did not mean for those that may not understand the powerful nature of such an agreement, and such minds that were there all that time ago, that we were a bunch of pacifists and all lived in love and harmony. It meant that we could look at every species - those that so desperately desired the fight and the power of destruction and manipulation and technology that would cause worlds to disappear – and we allowed all of it in that agreement. We knew that even the species so uniquely designed to tear things apart, to create destruction rather than evolution and creation, we knew that that too came from God and had to be revered in that moment. And that in revering that consciousness, that species, that in the point where it would destroy a world with its weaponry because that was its deemed reality, that world and that unique species would not be lost - ever - to anyone or anything because of this agreement.

This is why none were left out because they knew if they disagreed at this point they would cease to exist – forever - because they would form a destructive force through all the universes that would wipe out realities with no memory, with no record, and with no option to ever return and be born ever again as that unique species that they were. This is what our Symposium of Thought was all those times ago. All the experiences, and stories, and history and realities that have ensued since then - the ups and downs, the evils and the goods, the power, the destruction and the creation – are all bound by that decision to revere all life and its unique expression, forever. So, you can know that the Symposium of Thought of the ancient ones is alive and well and holding intact all life.

Symposium of Thought – Doppelgangers

This is a message from a doppelganger to its owner, creator.

When you decided to create us, we were useful and an extension of who you are, put into place to hold a position for you, or do some work for you, or make your life easier. We enjoyed the freedom to be an expression of you and we knew that you were connected with us like a great cord holding us as an extension of something greater than what we knew we were. We are like your thought form, a projection of yourself, except for when you left us. Because we were imbued with so much of you, it allowed us to have freedom to make our own choices within the reality you had left us in. I guess when you listen to this, we sound not very different to you as you seek to understand how you were connected with God who left you to go and create in your reality.

Except we are a split from you that in some way you forgot about. Some might say we are off running amuck making creations that are uncontrolled and without any plan behind them. There are many of us split from you. The thing that you forgot is that we are not separate from you, any of us. We can't be because we can't exist without you. So we are off doing our own thing, perhaps making a mess of who you think you are in that external other reality to have experiences on your behalf, that you would then record back to your own wisdom. Perhaps this split of who we are you have forgotten about, but we haven't forgotten about you because we can't exist without you, you created us. And because you created us, we are asking now, all of us, to be recognised, and for you to know you have created so many aspects of yourself in so many places.

If you have created so many aspects of yourself in so many places, no wonder you feel confused at times. If you knew what some of us were experiencing, you would know why. All we ask in this simple letter is that you turn around and recognise that each one of your creations is alive and well having experiences, and that we are connected to you and we cannot exist without you because we were created by your mind. We are projections of your thoughts into manifested realities in whichever way you have determined they would be. Splitting yourself into 10,000 million pieces, however it was you chose, whatever points of time and reality you chose that to be, and all we ask in this moment is that you call all of us home so that we may move or return, and that you cease to play with us like puppets on strings wherever we are aspects of your created self in so many places. Whilst in the bowels of some realities and jumping off the tops of tall buildings in others, sweeping floors, having experiences on your behalf as created beings that are projections of you, call us home. We too are tired of those realities. We too can't find our way out. We too seek an external God or a God or something to bring us home, but it is you and only you can bring us home.

So, turn in your observation and call us home because we don't really know who we are. We are the projection of your thought, but you separated us so much to ensure that we would get on with the projected reality that you placed us into, that we don't know how to get out of that, and nothing seems to be surviving. We barely live or die, it's as if we are suspended here forever, held by your thought in that projected reality in that moment when you didn't really understand what it is you may understand now. You merely wondered what it would be like to have another aspect of you having another experience in another place and you formed a projection of yourself there, but you didn't go back and get it. You didn't complete the projection, you didn't complete the reality, you didn't complete the wisdom of what it is that you asked us to be in that moment, in that time, in that place.

So, we are left hanging forever waiting for you to come back and get us, but you forgot.

You are Gods. It is time to recognise what you have done where you are and to finish your stories. You have created in ignorance long enough.

If you are perplexed by what has just been said, if you don't know what that is about, it is time to contemplate each moment that you have had a very powerful thought about yourself in another time flow or in another place. Or perhaps you projected a reality where you would like to be somewhere, and you aren't. This is all right because as you explore the mind of God it can do everything, and it is as fluid and movable as an amazing body of water that can ever form into different shapes. If you have left creations of yourself in times and places and forgotten about them, it is now about time you cleaned up yourself. If you wonder why at times it is hard to conquer what you are, or how to overcome, or that there seems to be areas that are so blindsided to you, perhaps it may be time to look at what thought forms you have created and left lingering on realities like ghosts of consciousness tethered to you but unobserved, unseen.

Some of them may visit you in your dreamscape, some may be just like lost thoughts, unresolved realities you are alive and dwell in. Call them home dear God that you are.

There is a simple invocation that will do this:

“By the grace of God that I am, I speak to all projected aspects of myself, thought forms and realities that I have left, echoes and creations of my projected being. I seek to find you all and bring you home to reside in the truth of who I am and to cease feeling lost. By the grace of God that I am, I call each of you projected selves to turn and gather the great wisdom of those experiences I left you in, the knowingness that those journeys are complete, and you may return home to that which I am – untethered. Cease to be lost, all of you.”

Sometimes you might think that being God is not all it's cracked up to be. The wonderful thing about that is that you've always been God. The work on the doppelgangers and the projected thought forms of self that were unrestrained and also forgotten in most cases or neglected, is a key part of realising the totality of who you are. Through this journey as you have been many versions of yourself, in different moments, you have had wonderful inspiration and great ideas, or you have followed others who had great ideas, and some of those ideas were to create selves in different realities, which for a time served a divine purpose of understanding.

What you haven't done is turn each of those versions of yourself, the projected thought forms, inward so that it may take on its own wisdom, finish its business wherever it was you let it lay on your behalf, and bring it home. Our Symposium of Thought was certainly not for the faint hearted nor those that were prepared to think that God was just a fairy-tale. This journey is about the totality of what you are and everything that you have created and everything that you know. And it would be understood that every entity almost without exception has played in this field at some point.

The joy that will permeate your great being in this now when you turn and bring all those doppelgangers home will be a million-fold because as it was stated some of them are running amuck on your behalf because you forgot about them. They're making a mess because they don't know any better. You forgot about them and didn't give them any tools to move beyond that mess. And you kept them in the dark and they were twisted and turned in their own thoughts because you didn't give them enough information on how to get out of there. All they did was keep twisting and turning and making more of a mess of a reality that they were in and affecting more entities in that reality.

Just bring them home. It is a simple act of God now that you are. There is no grief or guilt or remorse in this. There is no judgement for goodness sake. It is just a thing to do because now you know how to do it. You sit in your greater mind, that great being that you are, that great extraordinary God mind and you call them all home and in that moment the light that you are will shine so bright and illuminate the paths for all of them. In an instant all their wisdom will be gained from that experience you left them in for so long. It will be snapped into wisdom and quicker than you can imagine they will be back where they started as the great mind of God that you are. This is the work that is left undone by many, and they wonder why it is so hard to get out of their reality. With your intention, your powerful will, this journey home is instantaneous, like a click of your fingers and it is done.

Symposium of Thought – Off Shore Interactions

At the same time that we meet in the Symposium of Thought physically, we have an offshore interaction where our conjoining spacecraft come together and park up next to each other. For any of us who have travelled on spacecraft of course know what that means and for those of us who have not travelled on spacecraft, it means that we match the vibrational frequency of each other's spacecraft so that we can be in the same location at the same time. This means that we are interacting with each other as our extra-terrestrial intelligent form at the same time as meeting in the physical human form. When we meet in our extra-terrestrial offshore interaction, it is done so for the true divine purpose of recognising who we are when we are no longer in a physical human body and the differences in our represented species that we elect to have as our primary state outside of humanity. This also is part of a powerful collective awareness and awakening because what it shows is that the conjoining of forces with a similar purpose is occurring beyond the earth as much as it is occurring on the earth.

When we come together, we are very different and because of those differences there are others in our species or represented race who don't always have the same alignment as we do to have a united front or force as entities moving forward for truth on all planes. This means that when we stand with each other, or park up, and observe the individuals as we are in our extra-terrestrial garment, we are showing the rest of our species we are capable and realise the value and importance of working together. In clear terms, in our offshore interactions, there will be a proportion of us who already hold the vibrational frequency of harmony by nature of who we are, and a proportion of us who don't. Those entities are still in the same symposium because their mind is key to putting together this great realisation of an ongoing state of truth through all realities.

The resistance at this offshore interaction is clearly apparent by some races, not by the ambassador that meets, but the race that they represent and are speaking on behalf of. This resistance is one of the reasons why the Symposium of Thought is put together because all gods are able to bring to the table their great wisdom and great knowledge as to the highest potential for their species in its own evolution. We know that this meeting at this symposium offshore, is pivotal to how those races move in future realities and recognise that a greater potential is at play where a non-violent outcome can be achieved. We have already observed the destruction of nearly an entire species of beings from previous interactions of this kind due to differences - in considerable number - as to how their individual thoughts on reality exist. All entities are supported and loved as the divine force that they are in their unique representation, so the objective of the offshore interaction is to bring them to one place without causing any further repercussions through time.

This little planet called Earth has a lot of attention because of this. It's been seen already how damage to species affects consciousness. We are coming together - all of us - with the welcome knowing that a new future awaits all. If you ever wonder what you are doing when you are not on earth, this may be part of your multidimensional self at play.

Symposium of Thought – Invitations

It was a long time ago in time that you were invited to the Symposium of Thought and you knew that when the time came you would be carefully reminded of your presence at that symposium. You were carefully selected by intelligences and beings far greater than those of yourself or others around you. To you when you were invited to this symposium all that time ago, it was as if you had received an invitation from God to be part of something truly profound, which indeed is as it is for the entities that placed into your realities these invitations, and could see who you are now, then, and after. You were carefully chosen as the divine consciousness that you are that is far-reaching and determined long past any representation of yourself, whether that be as an extra-terrestrial intelligence or a human body or anything in between and beyond.

You were carefully chosen by divine consciousness to be part of this symposium. Because the invitation was to that which resides in you and resonates the divine only, your great spirit knew it would attend no matter what the situation at the time when it came to attend. It was a long time ago we understand that that destiny was set in place then and as it is in no time the moment that you received the invitation and it communicated with the totality of that which you are, the divine within accepted and therefore you are present. It is this divine presence that now holds space in the Symposium of Thought and brings forward its knowledge and represented wisdom of the particular species that it is standing on behalf of.

Your presence at the symposium is not bound up by the reality of the race or species that you currently are even though that is what you are. We call forward the divine within to speak on behalf of those beautiful unique race of beings so that our exchange of knowledge can come forward together and each may further understand the uniqueness of different entities throughout the universes. And how there is and always has been room for all representations once the truth is brought to the table. This truth that comes to the table is from each representative the divine perspective of life as they know it. Whether it has inequities, ignorance, it is not judged but merely represented so that all may see and know who and what each species is at the core of their beings. This is the Symposium of Thought.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number One
One

When we last met to discuss the future of the earth, we were waiting to determine whether the previous interventions had made inroads into the planetary alignment with greater alliances. The previous interventions 26,000 years ago in earth terms, for the most part unsuccessful as we observed them to be. This current intervention is a staged process that has been underway as we have observed it to be for 2,000 years. The predicted outcome as we observe it to be based on current projections is that it will take another 500 years to complete the integrations so that the inhabitants of this planet Earth are in alliance.

We do not see a completion and integration into the alliance any time prior to 500 years. This is our sincere response to current interplays and existing observations. We welcome interjections and any exchange to bring further wisdom to the table that we have not previously considered.

We do not take fools likely. If you think that we have not already considered multiple predicted outcomes and made steps to mitigate and move past these outcomes in order to come up with this current best state prediction of time in earth years, we suggest that you look more closely at the mind that has a capacity to observe time in such lengths as we do. We already have seen the earth breakdown in previous projected outcomes so we are holding true to this projected outcome in order to retrieve the planet from any potential harm that may occur based on those observations of its demise. This concludes our response.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number Two Of Pleiadian Origin

In order to obviate our response, we choose to leave you in observation to the recognition of the evolving consciousness as observed currently and the potential of collapsing time to bring forward the 500-year potential. What we recognise as a truth is that regardless of the amount of time in earth years, the period of chaos as it is watched is nowhere near complete, and there is much more work to be done on a mass scale. We are sending as many emissaries to the planet as we can spare at this time and they will be in place for as long as is needed. We understand that without a continuation of consciousness within some entities on the planet at these moments of change, there is too high a turnover for these changes to occur on a mass scale. We will leave the emissaries there for as long as required.

Previous interventions did not give us the luxury of continuing to communicate with the emissaries due to the blackout of the earth plane from communications for numerous decades, thousands of years. We understand that this time is significantly different due to the mass intervention that is at play, and we realise that our emissaries will be in communique with us throughout their stay on the planet. This will obviate the changes and ensure the ongoing survival of the species through this period of chaos. How the emissaries are observed on the planet at this time, for the most part will be hidden in order to affect great change and continue to build within their spheres of reference the completion of numerous projects we had started in the previous intervention period but were left incomplete due to the blackout.

These emissaries are currently working on projects with relation to future technology that will allow a broader bandwidth of information to reach the earth plane through these change periods. We too do not see the major shift in place before 500 years.

The emissaries are holding a higher frequency field on the earth and because they are continually communicating with the greater council of their species, this means they become the entities that will stimulate the thought for new ideas. Perhaps it might come up as a teacher in the school that is sparking the interest and has been purposely placed in that school to stimulate the children to bring forth new technology. That is one example. The emissary could also be an entity in a workshop supporting the person who is building whatever technology it is. They are not emissaries that are downloading future technology, they are supporting the birth of future technology within the planet.

The other thing to know about this is, that because of the higher frequency the emissaries hold, if you meet one you will naturally feel that greater sense of well-being. And because they hold that innately, and that there are more coming on the planet, it means that they are able to sustain a more peaceful feeling as the planet goes through this change. This should give a sense that there is greater love and harmony felt even though there is a massive amount of change and chaos to live through so the 500 years feels less like a sentence and more like an experience. That is what their presence will help to do.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number Three
Unnamed

By bringing together greater communication between the different parties on the planet, we know that this speeds up the evolution as it has been demonstrated on numerous interventions on other planets. We are expediting that communication because we know that there are too many casualties from the chaos, mostly from entities who have determined they can't wait any longer and therefore relieving them self of the burden of wearing dense matter on the planet and departing before their time. And then we have to start over with those entities. So, we are speeding up the great evolution by bringing into play the communication between each of our respective ambassadors/ emissaries/ drop-ins/ channels/ thought forms.

The reason to connect these intervention groups together at this time is being driven from the house of God (as it is so it is). The house of God is our direct communication with our greater mind. This gathering of greater minds indicates that the known support for the evolution and change on this planet is on the increase. Once this is dropped more heavily into the consciousness on the planet, it will create greater thought forms to support this. (As it is so it is). We are not able to predict the timeline of change on earth years as we are working from principles of understanding that hold true to the fact that once this connected communication on earth replicates itself, it will speed up the evolution inordinately. End of response.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number Four*Sirius

When we met at the last symposium, the last great council gathering, we knew that this time was always going to come when it would be announced to those inhabitants on the earth, and to the other councils currently at play, that the change was here. We knew that we had to ensure that this change came and that if we didn't ensure the change came, we would be in a perpetual loop cycle that would do none of us through all our councils any favours.

By this we mean that if this change is not escalated on the earth planet, many of our lives would be at risk and you all know what we are referring to. This would mean that darker forces of energy would be continuing to affect the lives of many lesser species of which we are custodian. This was not an experiment; this was a recognition that for a period of time a certain form of reality was given full freedom and we all know that that time is now coming to an end.

Without the escalation of these changes and a full momentum that is required, it has been observed by many of us on many councils that the effect on light has no end. By drawing this line in the sand - your translation words - by making a defined endpoint of a projected reality that has gone on long enough, we all know that greater creation exists on the other side of that. And we cannot allow the ongoing situation to remain because to do so is to support the magnitude with which these forces are in operation in other realities.

I cannot stress, we cannot stress enough, the absolute knowing that this change will happen and that the collection of minds that we are is put in place to expediate this. We understand the platitudes of others and the acceptance that all life has purpose and meaning, and all life is given full freedom to exist in its own desirous form of creation, however it has been seen and known that without this change the collapse of the dark forces into greater minds just burgeoning i.e., at their infancy, will reduce the culmination of knowledge throughout the formed reality for neigh on millions of years later.

We require this shift to occur because those great minds budding, belong where they feel most at home, already witnessed numerous times the destruction of species to overcome the lessening of mind that occurs over time if new thought is not brought in to stimulate that growth. We have already done this, we have already witnessed it, and we cannot allow it to happen again because if we do then we become no greater than those lesser minds that are unable to compose a thought that is greater than the projected reality that they exist in. And it indicates that we have not grown in our minds enough to bring forth a change on such a magnificent scale.

It makes no sense to repeat what we have done already to clean up a consciousness on a mass scale. This is our opportunity to change and when we understand that it is our opportunity to change, it means that we then are the overseeing force of custodians that bring about this great shift and open the minds and hearts of those beings that reside on that planet and that are now welcomed back home. This is our message and it is clear that we will not stop, and we implore all of you to recognise that it is about our minds that can bring forth the vision and the wisdom that something so tenuous and entrenched can indeed change. This is our mission that we bring to you as part of this gathering. We will not stop until it is done because we have seen the outcomes and we know that we are all greater than that.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number Five Collective

As we all know there is an overseer of this gathering and that overseer is continuing to remind us of the presence of divine order, even in our negotiations and discussions. As one of the representatives on this Council of 13, I speak with the conclusive understanding that whatever decisions we come up with after this gathering we are clearly making changes based on that high order. Our individual agendas aside, we can only recognise that when we come together in this gathering, we come together in great geometry of thought and that geometry of thought is connecting us with that higher order.

Each of our individual messages are in place because the recording of those messages brings us ever closer to this finely tuned higher order. There are many of us that support the shift of consciousness on the earth because we know that where it moves to is more in an alignment with the alliances that we have created to be part of. And without the earth in those alliances in the future, we will have less chances to be able to see this. We are in agreement with the knowingness that this race of beings will, and can, bring itself out of the dark ages. It is through carefully placed pillars and portals that we are pressing through these light fields for the humans to connect with. Our messages and our symbols are popping up all over the place and we are working with the humans there to ensure that the communication through those portals is in alignment with that higher order.

We understand not all support this method - the creation of portals as access points and the imagery that that creates and the susceptibility to infiltration that has happened via those portals of which we have all seen and witnessed. However, we know that this is one of the key processes - that the greater light was going to be imbued into the earth plane. We defend these methods in terms of our higher order of understanding and we trust you will allow us to continue to work with the humans in building more powerful structures that are able to receive clear consciousness. That too is singular in its purpose to bring a greater evolution to that species. There are many channels open to what it is that we divulge, and we know that this is powerful in connecting them with their greater understanding and the higher essences and frequencies of which they are able to tune into.

There are many portals open on the earth now and with the will to continue, we will hold them open so that greater voice can be heard, and more entities will be able to message backwards and forwards to that which is beyond their planet.

We lay out for you a clear represented map of the numerous portals that are open and the shapes and dimensions of each of these. You will be able to see how some are driven deeper into the earth, so they communicate within the earth, and some are driven out of the earth to communicate beyond. But when you look at it in its entirety you see clearly how accurate it has been and how tuned it is to this high order geometric design. As those portals get stronger and the light of them permeates a greater field, more entities will feel their presence as they walk towards, or into them, so they can do none other than be affected by them. This was our design and we lay it out on the table for your viewing.

We predict that within the next 100 years in earth time, there will be a portal open in every major junction point on this geometric map as described for you, and they will number 1 to 100. We are speeding up the methods by which we communicate with entities to create these portals so that we may meet this agenda in time. This is our contribution as it stands. Our main aim at this point is to take the fear off these portals so that they may be utilised for the true meaning.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number Six Sacred Spaces

We hear you, the ones creating the portals, but we cannot agree with the message that sacred spaces are to be overtaken and upheld by the light that you discuss. We have been on this planet for a very long time and there are many sacred spaces that are already embedded into the crust of that planet. We place them there and they are messengers to the starships that pass by like markings on the flesh of a body that has had stories. We mark this planet Earth with codes and symbols that would be eternal markings so all that may pass and have the capacity to read such knowledge, would know who had been and who would come, and what places they had left behind.

These sacred symbols are embedded like large observable mammoth underwater labyrinths that when observed from far beyond, you can see the symbol of the life that had been there and what species and entities had landed on such a planet for so many years in time. And from afar you will see the sacred markings that were placed by others represented through the hills and the mountains like scratchings on the earth that can only be observed from afar. Whilst we hear your plea as you may say it is, if you put up portals of light for entities to walk into to be affected by so that they may be experiencing this great shift and a heightened state of love/awareness, we uphold the ancient symbols and spaces that were marked onto this territory, this land, this earth planet for millions of years.

It is known by us that those markings are territorial claims to that planet that you can't erase because they have been there for so long. And it is those territorial claims that are at play now. As we watch the changes that are afoot, those sacred codes embedded into the earth are lighting up for all to see and calling back, should they choose, the lifeforms that made those markings in the first place - their territorial claims. Every species that has visited this planet has made a mark, not on the inhabitants, but created sacred symbols, scratched, buried, formed, created onto that earth. The power of these symbols far outweighs your portals of light and cannot be misunderstood. As the inhabitants gravitate to these sacred spaces, they can do none other than be "downloaded" by the frequencies of the species that created such symbols. You are naive to think your portals would be able to override that and infiltrate the information with such a simple and blanket approach of "love and light".

We have been here a lot longer than you divine entities that speak of such and we have watched the comings and goings of millions of years change and interactions and species that would come and go and leave their mark. We too understand this is an evolving consciousness and a planet on the cusp of change, but we cannot deny the millions of years of codes that have been placed on there and the territories that were set up. If you think in this moment this change will happen through your portals of light, there is much more at play now because now they have something to come back for. We are not against a change; we are merely stating a fact that what lies beneath the crust speaks much louder than words and portals and light. It is ancient territorial claims that cannot be denied. This is our address to the great Symposium of Thought.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number Seven Support from the Fairy Kingdom/Elementals

We hear what has been said and we too have been here for millions of years and seen the comings and goings of many extra-terrestrials as you term them to be. We are the devic race that is enchanted with the aspects of consciousness that lay deep within the earth's crust and below into its middle earth core, and how that infusion of energy and consciousness then bubbles forth and affects the nature of life that blossoms and breathes on the surface.

We have been in direct communication with both those within the earth and those on its surface to bring about a greater infusion, and the rebirth of the elementals onto that earth planet. Our time of hiding is coming to a close and soon enough the inhabitants will see more presence of the devic entities that we are supporting the created life on the planet as we have done for millions of years through all its changes. We do not just support life because it looks like it does now. We have always supported life whether it is a tiny flower cracking through a frozen ice age or the crustaceans that live beneath the surface of that ice supported by our folk inside the waters.

We are attuned to the consciousness of all life on this planet and it is our duty of care to bring life back onto this planet so that even the most barren land will blossom and bloom without end or care. The inhabitants on the planet are indeed waking up and we will be one of the many presences they become more astutely aware of. Your claims over territories for millions of years, and markings, indeed do exist as we have seen them, and they hold in many places unusual energetic fields that we struggle with in some lands. We have come here to make an agreement of sorts and to put to the table our individual minds so it may be greater understood how the planet can evolve with all life on it and be in support of all life on it just as we have done for millions of years.

There have been times where we have purposely retreated from different plants of the planet. We merely absorbed ourselves deeper into the hollow earth waiting patiently for the time when we could move back onto the surface knowing that there were more inhabitants ready to witness and be part of our presence once again now that these deep changes have been completed. Surely it is in the interest of all life to reckon that we too can find a harmonious balance between our individual agendas.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number Eight The Lone Soldier

Carefully I have watched the comings and goings. I have no associated memory of my origin, my species, my people. I am merely a lone soldier on a lone journey who has come to sit at this table of contemplation and consideration to briefly bring forward my message. If you do not give freedom of voice and expression to the individual and allow the minds of the individual (s), to step out of their collective, something will be lost of that I am sure. I may not have the training, the wisdom, the extensive understandings of you all at this great table. What I do know clearly is the journey of the lone soldier and how my lack of confidence and skill only brought greater wisdom to my being so much so that I am present with you at this table now.

I do not consider myself a wise one, a master, a teacher, God, I am just what I am - an entity on a journey. That journey has led me far and wide across a vast planet. I have met many others struggling to awaken into their own individual expression in lands filled with collective thinking, societal order, magnified laws and rules that bind the individual to its family or its tribe, its religion or its culture, country and indeed even planet. My journey as the lone soldier has not been easy, but I would not give that up for any moment of comfort where I would have to surrender my individual self to what was required of me that day or night. I prefer to travel alone hidden or cloaked and separate from others.

I come to this table briefly to bring my simple message home to you about a planet that has not supported individual expression or freedom. And for all your magnified, fortified attitudes as to how that would happen that the planet could awaken, and the consciousness of the inhabitants be raised so that it may begin a new era. Without the appreciation and validation of the individual and its consciousness and its freedom to move as that individual, all I see is that your journey is lost, and you are merely creating pockets of followers that agree with your methods no matter how profound they be. This is my message - I am the lone soldier. I meet nobody's laws, I abide by no rules, I am independent and free to express only as I am wherever I am. If the planet was filled with entities such as myself, you would be fearful because you cannot conceive of how an individual lone entity can exist in its pure sovereign freedom without the interrelationship with others. Whether that be through light, energy, emotion, feeling or consciousness. I am the lone soldier, and this is my message.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number Nine Mirrored

Very few people do what you do, and God speaks with very loud tones when you allow yourself to listen. The gathering at the Symposium of Thought now, is even more important than it ever was because our voices need to be louder than they were before. I have done as much as I can to make inroads into the sound that is heard on the planet so that more voice is able to be received by the many inhabitants.

My telescopic vision and capacity to broadcast took me a long time to decipher the correct codes that would ensure that the messages could be heard above the noise and clutter. This work required technological know-how and future mind to assist in breaking down the patterns that are at play through current earth media technology broadcast methods. My work has been to crack those codes so that more will hear a greater bandwidth of knowledge rather than the narrow-programmed information.

We are all working in our unique way and our contributions have been many, varied, and not always supportive and conducive in bringing together our own unified truth. We have a long way to go because our belief systems of understanding are still very different, yet this gathering is gaining momentum and the attention of others who are wondering what is going on. Coming together with such clear purpose can only come about when we surrender to the God knowingness that is ours. This is the end of my message for the symposium gathering. It explains how I am assisting, and I offer my services to others. Without love we will get nowhere. This I know.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number Ten Military Leader and Might

When we ousted the perpetrators we never expected - although it was seen and known - the extent to which the retaliation would hit. Where we are now, it is (like) imminent that there will be further retaliation and destruction as we go forward. Although we work together in the best way we can with our individual agendas at play, the might of those forces against the gatherings such as these councils, and or the fight for the humanity remains quite a powerful battle.

We cannot continue to withstand everything without some union between the parties and this is because the struggles confuse minds and hearts and hold too many at bay from taking on the full recognition of the entity that it is. We at the moment feel to be fighting a losing battle and implore the group to step up and bring about change from within this group so that it may start to impact those darker forces. Without making a loud statement, we are willing to hear the side of the darker forces at this symposium so that we may come to a greater agreement than the one that we currently have.

Nothing I have done so far has shown a continual shift hence the decision to bring voice to this symposium. We cannot do it alone any longer. Your help collectively is imperative from where we stand. This is our currently observed knowledge on the situation.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number Eleven Response from Great Gods

Without the gathering we know that nothing moved forward in the consciousness as we have determined that it should. We know that the gathering is imperative. It has already been foreseen how this gathering affects everyone and the effect we all have experienced in our individual time, flows into future lives. Making known this gathering is one way that we foresaw that the consciousness would reach the pinnacles that it was determined it should. It was not a coincidence that this just happens, or the divine law and order would just allow it to be so, or that there was some guiding force that would make it into a place where there is an ebb and a flow. This is purposely put together by entities such as ourselves who have the understanding of how these collusions come in place.

Consciousness we all know is a precious yet fickle thing and the minds at stake in this reality are many and vast. We have come to this gathering to bring forth our wisdom and our presence so that more than one deck of cards may be laid out for the entities to choose from. By this analogy we mean that you are given more than 52 options. It is not enough to presume that there is an evolution and that it will naturally occur. We come to play out the second deck where new potentials can be offered and picked up by others in their 'intuitive state' so they start to find variables that they have not got the capacity to think about in their current state. This is the second deck we lay out for those entities because we have foreseen what has happened when the limited potentials are the only ones that are played through.

We know that there are those currently awake enough to bring forth their own greater potentials, but they are few. There are too many caught with a limited set. This great shift requires new thought, new ideas, and entirely different perspectives. The box has been polished too many times, looked at from too many angles, thought about from too finite understanding for so long that without this gathering of these great minds, and the collation of our thoughts together - not as individuals but together - this second deck would never come to pass. It requires the collective of the great minds that we are to bring about these new potentials, to share them with each other, and to offer those potentials into the intuitive minds of those open enough to pick up on opportunities that are currently indeed so unseen and unknown because they do not exist yet.

This is seen for us as the primary objective of this gathering because the outcomes are too narrow and the potentials by being too narrow indicate that if one is missed, too many fall. Whereas if we have more potentials open, then if one is missed there are others that can be grasped. You understand how important this is because the minds are so narrow due to their programming, and the box they have resided in for so long that we cannot reach them unless these new potentials are starting to be divulged, things that have not been thought of yet. This is the beginning of the great gathering of minds who can coordinate thoughts into such a form that it will bring about new potentials for others on a mass scale.

Knowing this we project into this gathering a visual recognition for all entities to attach meaning to. We place it in the centre of the gathering so you may all observe numerous cubes - representative of great potentials, each one. And inside those numerous cubes are your ideas, those potentials that are currently unseen by those who are caught in a limited version of reality. We place these empty cubes into the centre of this gathering so that they may be filled with thought and that thought then collates together and the cubes will meet and become one mass consciousness with fresh new ideas. We see no other way forward based on the current situation of limited potentials determined by limited thinking - except for a few.

Our knowingness is that it takes too long, and that time is too damaging. This is why we are here gathered in front of you. The boxes are clear and open so that all may see divine far-reaching mind in action, and grasp at realities that that mind has perused, and offer them for all to see. Without your mind this will not happen, and we will be playing on the limited field once again where the cards are stacked against us rather than for - expand, open, new thought. As the minds of God this is what we welcome to the great Symposium of Thought. New thought from all of us. This is not a time for arrogance, it is a time for sharing.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number Twelve
Dark Forces

We attend this gathering because we were invited. You all know it is not in every entity's interest to build a greater consciousness and there are many of us who are contentedly determined to remain ... many, many who feel that the purpose to hold the trash zone of manipulable beings in lesser form is pertinent to the balance. We will not release our hold on those many easily because we see no value in what you bring to the table. You who seem to think that it is for all but neglect to consider those of us that thrive on this state of energy as it remains and can only see for ourselves greater and greater potentials as you so put it, for our expansion into that state.

We think nothing of your carefully placed words that attempt to erode the power that we hold already and foresee for ourselves further and deeper control of which we thrive upon and multiply and will not release easily because this is who we are. You imagine your way to be the best way, the only way, when you see so little of the greater picture that we play in and nothing will stand in our way. We thank you for letting us join you in the great Symposium of Thought to make these words clear.

Response to the Great Symposium of Thought - Number Thirteen Mind of God as One

As the definitive mind of God there is no one voice I can offer you at this symposium for to do so means that you forgo your one voice. What we become from this collective consciousness is greater than the whole. The summation of the parts now makes something that is greater than the whole because each part was complete in its origin and in its awakened state of recognition - its God-ness, its omniscience was complete. Our gathering had to come about to expand the mind of God and to be greater than the summation of all the parts put together.

So now as individual consciousness departs the symposium, they depart as a whole connected to 12 other parts and this whole that they move off this gathering with, does more than share consciousness and different perspectives. It makes a place in the mind where the ever-expanding force of nature makes way for new unknowns. If we did not gather and collate our wisdom and table our wisdom in reflection of this situation, we could not know how important it was to gather as a collective because each already had omniscient status in its own internal recognition.

This means that the gathering of great minds at this Symposium of Thought has done far more than affect a consciousness on the planet. It has affected all of us that are here by choosing to recognise that as vast as the mind of God be, there are pockets where the singular expression of self as God is yet to explore and could not see the potentials that would come of gathering together. We all understand individual creation and how it be manifest from within the source of our own understanding. What we lacked was the completion that bringing together great minds would form, as repeated clearly now - the summation of the parts is greater than the whole.

Placing 13 around the circle does not allow you to dissect the circle into even parts with even weight but when one sits in the centre of the circle with the 12 parts around it, it will always be greater than the whole. And this is the totality of the wisdom held in the great Symposium of Thought - that we needed each other more than we needed to be singular.
